Beverage and Alcohol Guidelines

How to Make the Calculations:

Start with your best guess of the drinking habits of your guests. Divide the number of guests between the types of beverages you plan to serve. For example, if you choose to offer wine, beer and alcohol-free beverages, then figure the number of servings for each category, calculating one drink for every 45 minutes, or 3 drinks for every 2 hours. Finally match the total servings to the chart above.

EXAMPLE:

50 guests for a 2 hour event:

30 guests will drink wine	x 3 drinks = 90 servings
10 guests will drink beer	x 3 drinks = 30 servings
10 guests will drink alc-free	x 3 drinks = 30 servings

In This Example You Would Need:

Wine	=	1.5 cases	=	90 servings
Beer	=	5 six packs	=	30 servings
Alc-free	=	6-750 mL bottles	=	30 servings

NOTE:

If you do not know what the drinking habits of your guests are, you will need to overestimate an equal division of all categories. For example, using the same 50 people above, with the same beverage offering, assume 25 will drink wine, 25 will drink beer, and 25 will drink alcohol-free. It may seem that you are buying more than you need, but your guests will not be disappointed.
